

TAFT CERTAIN OF A VICTORY

Washington, Oregon And Idaho Are Sure To Give Republican Candidate Good Majority.

SENTIMENT FAVORS HIS CANDIDACY

Internal Strife And Second Choice Primary Election
Choice Will Not Affect The National Political Situation At All.

BY CHARLES MESSER STOW.

Seattle, Oct. 31.—The states of Oregon and Washington have done things politically that have caused some doubt to rest on the outcome of the approaching presidential election. In 1892 the republican state of Washington went democratic by a plurality of some 12,000 for Bryan. In the primary election last June the republican state of Oregon nominated a democrat for United States senator to succeed a republican. Those two democratic stunts pulled off in republican territory have caused the query to arise as to whether or not it will be done again.

Both Oregon and Washington have a primary law, each of which is a radical departure from the old-time methods of nominating candidates, and each of which has had a part in changing the political aspect of the two commonwealths.

Under the primary law of Oregon occurred last June the spectacle of a republican state expressing a preference for a democrat to succeed a republican in the United States senate by a majority of 1,552.

The primary law of Washington, which, after due deliberation, the supreme court of that state has declared constitutional in all of its provisions, contains a section relating to a "second choice" of voters that makes the result of a primary election as uncertain as the way a grasshopper is going to jump.

If there are more than three names on a ballot, a voter, after indicating his preference for the man he wants to nominate, must mark a second choice from the names that are left. Now unless one of the first choice candidates has at least 40 per cent of the total votes more than the next highest, neither of them is chosen, but the nomination goes to the "second choice" candidate having the greatest number of votes.

In addition to being cumbersome, it took seven men five days to count 308 ballots in one precinct in Spokane—this system leaves the result very doubtful.

This happened at the September primary election in Washington that each of the two leading republican candidates for governor, Governor Mead and former Governor McBride, were kept from becoming the party nominee, and the nomination for governor went to Samuel O. Cowgrove on the "second choice" provision of the primary law.

Because of this same statute, the democrats of that state never will know who their rightful nominee is. Certain discrepancies were found in the official count which would have necessitated a recount and much legal difficulty had not one of the candidates withdrawn. A. J. Shilow, considering the game not worth the candle, pulled out, leaving John Patterson, the recognized candidate of the democratic party for governor.

Incidentally it is considered a foregone conclusion throughout the state that the next governor will not be a democrat, and only a half-hearted campaign is being made for this office.

The republican party of both Oregon and Washington split up into many factions and intra-party strife is rampant. Herein the democrats profess to find encouragement.

In Oregon the party came to grief through too much machine, and Senator Fulton, the best of the old guard, was overwhelmed in his contest for nomination for election to the senate by the adherents of the new legislation, who are opposed to all that savors of the old machine of Senator Mitchell. Factions and cliques have arisen in the ranks of the latter day republican party, however, and spite and jealousies are openly proclaimed. Senator Jonathan Bourne has an ambition to be what used to be called a "boss," only he conceals it under the term "leader." Senator Bourne would like to "lead" the new republican party of Oregon, and being a very rich man and a good politician, numerous others would like to see him attain his ambition. Senator Fulton, though, is an even better politician and he has recruited to the depleted ranks of his machine a very creditable following. Just at present he seems to have the upper hand, and Senator Bourne is not taking an active part in the present campaign.

After he failed to force Roosevelt to run again, he scrambled into the bandwagon and sent an ordinance out to Oregon from Washington to get control of the state central committee and to organize Taft clubs throughout the state. His committee men, however, found themselves without power, and his Taft clubs were repudiated by the committee that, under Senator Fulton, took charge of things and ousted the Bourne men. So Senator Bourne was in no hurry to stop playing golf with Taft, and since his return to Oregon has been in retirement. Meanwhile Senator Fulton is running the campaign.

Factional fights are even stronger in Washington than in Oregon. There probably never was a campaign harder fought or more bitter in its personal animosities than the recent primary campaign in Washington. Each very strongly for himself. The fight was all among the republicans and the democrats sat back and watched, hoping that the splits and quarrels would last over till the November election, and that by this way they might be able to pull through.

Herein the Washington republicans differ from those of Oregon: After the leaders had pulled off their contest to whip each other, they turned for a moment to talk things over, with the result that they kept their coats off instead of one another.

Consequently a much greater republican plurality is predicted from Washington than from Oregon. Besides, in the latter state there seems to be a general apathy toward national issues. It seems to be taken for granted that the republican ticket will win out and the question of a majority is not exciting the public in general.

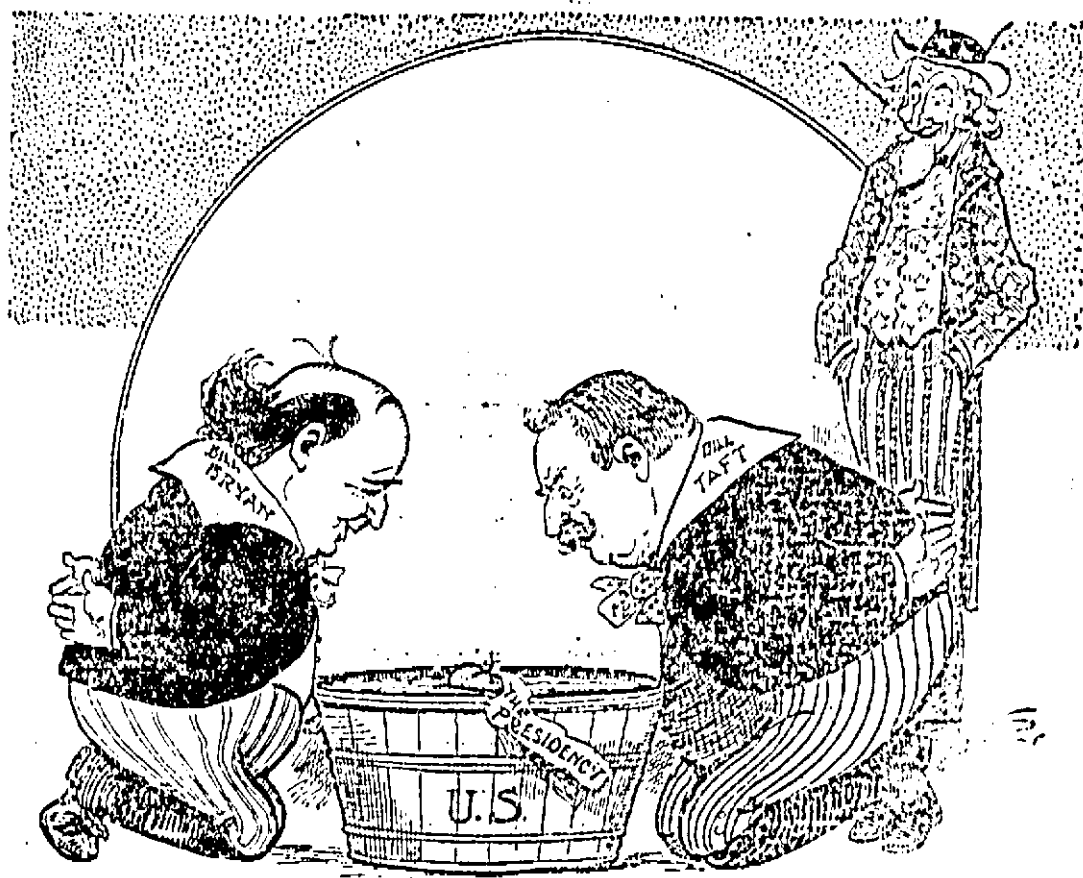

This question of plurality is impossible to estimate at all correctly in either state. The bitter intra-party strife is bound to have some effect on the general result, and there will be a return of some democratic votes that went to Roosevelt in 1904. There has also been active among the traders unions for Bryan, and a large part of the republican vote is concentrated in the Nebraska. A canvass conducted by the Nebraskan in all the counties of Oregon gives a plurality for Taft estimated at 19,220. The guess that is hazarded by republican leaders in Washington places Taft's plurality in that state at 40,000, with the prediction that he will carry every county.

A vigorous socialist campaign has been carried on in both states, as well as much speech-making by the prohibitionists and some work by the independence party. Any votes that these minor parties may pull, partly as a result of factional dissensions, for the hatred between the two major parties in days gone by was too deep-seated to allow of an easy job.

When Washington voted for Bryan in 1892 the wave of populism had been sweeping over the country, and had found lodgment in a rather large contingent in the minds of the Washington farmers. They had been suffering reverses in their crops and were tired for some new thing. Since that time, though, the northwest has had a period of unrelieved prosperity. It felt the pulse of 1907 less than any other section of the country, and its banks were among the first to resume cash payments, although many of them had not stopped paying out coin at all. Under these conditions there is not the cry for change of administration that ordinarily might be heard.

Summed up, the outlook is for a Taft victory in the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. In Washington the plurality is expected to be above 25,000. In Oregon it is thought 15,000 will be the outside figure. Senator Heyburn is authority for the statement that Idaho will roll up 15,000 for Taft, but more conservative estimates place the figure nearer 10,000.

Cripple Stopped Runaway: J. T. Wright's horse started to run away with a delivery wagon on North Jackson street this morning. With incredible agility, Angus McDermott, who has the misfortune to have lost one of his limbs, pulled on his wooden leg, and got hold of the reins, stopping the animal just beyond the city hall.

HAS RULED GREECE FORTY-FIVE YEARS

King George I. Is Next to the Oldest Sovereign in Europe—Of Danish Birth.

Athens, Oct. 31.—Many congratulations have been received by George I. in recognition of the fact that today he rounded out forty-five years as king of Greece. Born a Danish prince, son of the late King Christian IX., his Majesty spent his early years in the Danish navy. The national assembly proclaimed him King of the Hellenes on March 30, 1863. He was then seventeen years old, having been born on December 21, 1842. On October 20 of the same year he arrived in Athens, and on the following day he took the oath and mounted the throne.

Next to the Emperor of Austria he is the oldest of the sovereigns of Europe. He enjoys excellent health, a fact which he ascribes to the regularity of his habits. He invariably rises early in the morning and works alone. At 9:30 he takes tea and coffee with Queen Olga. He then receives his minister and deputies, and the persons entered on the visiting book for a private audience. At 1:30 he breakfasts with all the royal family. After this repast he again works for an hour or two. He then goes out for a drive or a walk. Dinner is served at 8 o'clock, and the company comprises the members of the royal family, the dignitaries of the palace, and some private friends. The king goes out very rarely at night, unless he is to the theater or to the fetes given by the representatives of foreign powers. He prefers to pass the evening with his family.

Albertville may be taken off map. Wisconsin Central threatens to leave town without any railroad.

ALBERTVILLE MAY BE TAKEN OFF MAP

Wisconsin Central Threatens to Leave Town Without any Railroad.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 31.—Businessmen and citizens of Albertville have asked in an effort to save the village from being erased from the map by the Wisconsin Central, which proposed to straighten the road and thus leave Albertville without a railroad. Surveyors are now at work laying out the proposed line to straighten the curve leading to Albertville.

GAMES SCHEDULED FOR WEST TODAY

Chicago-Minnesota Game in Chicago—Wisconsin Plays Marquette
in Madison.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—The football schedule for the West today contains a rich variety of attractions, foremost on the list being the Chicago-Minnesota game at Marshall Field this afternoon. Other games that promise thrills for the gridiron enthusiasts are Illinois vs. Indiana at Urbana, Michigan vs. Vanderbilt at Ann Arbor, and Nebraska vs. Iowa at Iowa City. Then there are several other games that would upon any other occasion be worth while if they were not overshadowed by the bigger contests. Wisconsin and Marquette college meet at Madison, Heloit college and Lawrence university at Beloit, Rose Polytechnic and Washington university at St. Louis, and Purdue and Delaware at Lafayette.

End of First Half
Carlisle, 0; Navy, 0.

Army, 0; Princeton, 0.
Marquette, 6; Wisconsin, 5.

Chicago, 11; Minnesota, 0.
More First Papers: Eight foreign-born residents of the county applied today at the office of the clerk of the circuit court for their first naturalization papers.

GROSVENOR SURE OF TAFT VICTORY NOW

"Sage of Athens" Has Looked Over the Field and Seen Republican Victory.

Athens, Ohio, October 31.—A minimum of 319 votes to be cast by 30 states is claimed for Taft and Sherman by General Charles H. Grosvenor, the "Sage of Athens," in his political forecast made public today. General Grosvenor was in Congress for more than twenty years. He is a better known, however, as the proponent of the republican party.

General Grosvenor concedes 15 states, with 145 electoral votes, to Bryan and Kern. He has looked the field over carefully, and has reached the conclusion that conditions do not justify the prediction of a large vote for the democratic nominee.

A political campaign without the Grosvenor forecast would be an incomplete as a production of Hamlet without the ghost. The Grosvenor forecast has come to be a necessity in Congress as well as Presidential campaigns.

General Grosvenor places Kentucky, Montana and Nevada in the doubtful column.

New York, Ohio and Indiana are classified as republican beyond a doubt. "Kentucky is doubtful and yet hopeful," General Grosvenor declared. "Montana is as likely to go republican as it is democratic."

"I cannot say without both Indiana and New York," said General Grosvenor. These states being safely republican General Grosvenor forecasts the election of the republican presidential candidate.

Here are the states, with their voting strength in the electoral college, that General Grosvenor claims for Taft and Sherman:

California	10	New Hampshire	4
Colorado	5	New Jersey	12
Connecticut	5	New York	39
Delaware	3	North Dakota	4
Idaho	3	Ohio	23
Illinois	27	Oregon	4
Indiana	15	Pennsylvania	21
Iowa	13	Rhode Island	4
Kansas	10	South Dakota	4
Maryland	8	Utah	4
Massachusetts	16	Vermont	4
Michigan	11	Washington	5
Minnesota	11	West Virginia	4
Mississippi	10	Wisconsin	13
Nebraska	8	Wyoming	3

Total 319
According to General Grosvenor the following states, with a total of 145 electoral votes, will be carried by Bryan and Kern:

Alabama	11	North Carolina	12
Arkansas	9	Oklahoma	7
Florida	9	South Carolina	9
Georgia	13	Tennessee	12
Louisiana	9	Texas	18
Mississippi	10	Virginia	12
Nebraska	8

Continuing, General Grosvenor says: "At one time I regarded Indiana as doubtful. However, I have just returned from a week's canvass in that state, and now classify it as safely republican."

"So I estimate in conclusion that Judge Taft will have 319 electoral votes. I have no fear that his electoral vote can fall below a victory."

BIG DEMONSTRATION IN NEW YORK CITY

Businessmen's Club March for Taft and Sherman—Over 60,000 Men in Line.

New York, Oct. 31.—The businessmen's Taft and Sherman parade this afternoon was the largest political demonstration of its kind seen in New York since the famous South Money parade in 1896. The procession started from the city hall and marched up Broadway to Forty-second street. The republican managers estimated that over 60,000 men were in line. The drygoods trade, wholesale and retail, supplied the greatest number. The Clothing Legion, the Lawyers' Taft and Sherman club, the West Side Business Men's club, the Hat and Allied Trades, the Fishers' League and numerous other organizations were well represented.

There were many novel features in the way of floats and transparencies. The parade was reviewed by James S. Sherman and Secretary Root.

TWO FISHERMEN ARE PUT UNDER ARREST

Three More Are Being Sought—Schuette Still a Republican—Injunction Suit Dismissed.

Mantowau, Wis., Oct. 31.—Two of a party of five men surprised fishing in the Manitowau river with nets are under arrest and search is being made by the game wardens to locate the other three. Fred Kreiger and Gott Schuette of Collins are the men in custody and they refuse to reveal the identity of their three companions who escaped. The warden confiscated 125 pounds of nets and a quantity of fish. The case against the men has been adjourned until Monday.

Is a Republican
In an open letter to the press, John Schuette, president of the Manitowau Savings bank, the father of the guarantee of bank deposits plan adopted as a national issue by the democrats, declares he will support the republican party, having faith that the party will adopt the plan if feasible and wanted by the people. Mr. Schuette issues the letter to set at rest rumors that he would support Bryan because of the adoption of the guarantee plan and says that he has always been a republican and don't intend to change now.

Dismisses Suit
An order has been filed in circuit court dismissing the injunction suit started by property owners near the Wisconsin Central yards to restrain the company from erecting storage tanks on the Central property. The injunction was dissolved some time ago but it was said the fight in court would be continued on the grounds that the tanks are a menace but the suit is now abandoned. The order closes a fight of more than seven years against the Standard here.

Are Angry
Socialists of the county are up in arms and threaten to contest the election if the name of Martin Georgeson, this city, is not placed on the election ballot as a candidate for congress from the Eighth district. Georgeson, who was nominated by having his name written in at the primary, was not certified by the secretary of state as a candidate for congress and his name is not on the 17,000 ballots which have been printed here for the election. An inquiry has been addressed to the secretary of state. The county clerk has no authority to place a name on the ticket not certified to him.

EMPEROR REFUSES THE RESIGNATION

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Emperor William today refused to accept Chancellor Von Buelow's resignation tendered in consequence of the publication in London of an interview with the Emperor for which Von Buelow took the responsibility.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA EXCITED OVER ELECTION

Residents Denied The Right Of Local Suffrage
Through Living In District.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Official Washington is looking forward to the results of the election next Tuesday with many evidences of anxious interest. President Roosevelt is making an attempt to conceal his interest in the outcome of the contest between Taft and Bryan and has given his personal attention to the arrangements for receiving the election returns at the White House next Tuesday night. The President is particularly anxious, too, that the next house shall be of his political faith. The campaign for members of congress, though overshadowed by the presidential contest, has not been neglected, as some persons are inclined to think. Some of the republican leaders here are inclined to admit that the democrats may make gains over their present representation in congress, but they do not concede the former all they are claiming. Both parties have directed their final energies to the districts where the fight is closest.

Although denied the right of local suffrage Washington, because of the presence of the national government, takes the greatest interest in the outcome. Hundreds of the clerks, both democrats and republicans, in the various departments who still hold their legal residences in the states from which they were appointed have gone home to vote. As none of the national campaign committees is maintaining headquarters in Washington this year, the result is that the local element is large dependent upon outside sources for the "straws" which show the way the political wind is blowing. Nevertheless it is probable that no city in the country is better informed as to the situation. Leaders of both parties, men prominent in public life, are constantly coming and going in the national capital and their opinions are well calculated to keep the people informed as to the progress of the campaign in all sections.

As regards the presidential contest, the opinion prevails here that New York, Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey form the real battleground. Other states have witnessed some hard fought campaigning during the past two months, but the four states named are expected to furnish most of the news on election day.

The electoral college will contain 483 votes this year. The candidate who wins must have at least 242 electoral votes. Some features of the contest may be disposed of by mathematics as well now as on this day next week. For instance, there is little use to dispute the fact that the democrats have 120 electoral votes bottled up. These votes will come from eleven southern states as follows:

Alabama	11	South Carolina	9
Arkansas	9	Tennessee	12
Florida	9	Texas	18
Georgia	13	Virginia	12
Louisiana	9
Mississippi	10	Total	120
North Carolina	12

There are four border states they are reasonably certain to win. These are:

Delaware	3	Maryland	8
Kentucky	13	Total	46

With 120 votes in the eleven southern states and the 46 votes in the border states the democrats may count upon 166 electoral votes. This leaves the party 70 votes short of enough to elect. If the democratic optimism should prove to be well founded, it should turn out to be a democratic year, that party probably will pick up some votes in the far western states, but everybody who applies mathematics to the situation reaches the conclusion that the party's hope lies in carrying the so-called battleground states. New Jersey, Ohio, New York and Indiana, with Delaware and West Virginia, (which states also are placed in the doubtful column by some of the mathematicians) can be made to form a number of combinations which would give the democrats the necessary 70 electoral votes and bring about the election of William J. Bryan. But without these so-called battleground states the case of the Nebraska candidate is hopeless.

DAVIDSON FIGHTING FOR HIS EXISTENCE

Defeat of Twesme Means La Follette's Supremacy Over the Governor's Faction.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—Helping the contest over the presidential electoral vote of Wisconsin, overshadowing the race between republicans and democrats for state, county and legislative offices, is the scrap which Senator La Follette and Governor Davidson are having for the election of their preferred candidates for the assembly from the little district of Trempealeau county. This fight is the most interesting feature of the coming election in the state of Wisconsin.

It is particularly interesting as disclosing the trend of sentiment in Wisconsin as between the followers of La Follette and the adherents of Governor Davidson. It is interesting because it is a fight in the open and the lines are clearly drawn. An incidental is this a fight between Herman L. Ekern and Albert T. Twesme, the genuine label of the contest is La Follette against Davidson.

So bitter became the fight that the governor disappointed the plans of the state central committee and instead of going to Milwaukee yesterday for a big meeting, he turned around and went back to Trempealeau county to answer the last speech of the senator.

Unless La Follette has suffered great loss of following he should be able to elect his man, Speaker Ekern, next Tuesday.

There are some 2,200 republican voters in Trempealeau county, making the figures of four years ago, and only about 600 democratic voters, so that if the democrats hold together and Twesme divide the republican strength, there is no danger of the split and independent candidacy resulting in the election of a democratic legislator.

For several campaigns Trempealeau county has been a stronghold of La Follette sentiment, and the wonder is that Ekern should have been defeated in the primary. It certainly was due to a change of sentiment for the primary election vote was nearly as large as the republican vote of four years ago.

Speaker Ekern and his friends declare their people were caught napping and were imposed upon, but that the voters will rally to Ekern's support at the election.

If it be the case, it will demonstrate wonderfully the power of the personal speech of Senator La Follette to change votes, but if the republican nominee, Twesme, should be elected it would eloquently foretell a terrible battle two years hence when Senator La Follette will be engaged in a fight for his political existence and in grave danger of being lost.

This Trempealeau county contest is a cloudy test between Davidson and La Follette. Each has come out with his speech. Davidson, for the republican nominee, Twesme, and La Follette for the independent candidate, Ekern, who was defeated for the nomination on primary election day.

May Be In Evansville: The parents of fifteen-year-old Orlando Ford, who is missing, secured information today which leads them to believe that he may be in Evansville.

CANDIDATES ARE WORKING HARD IN DISPUTED STATES

Taft Is In New York, Bryan In Ohio, Kern In Indiana, and Sherman
in New York City Today.

[By Associated Press.]

New York, Oct. 31.—New York, Indiana and Illinois, representing 81 electoral votes and still to be regarded as final doubtful states, were the scenes of final desperate fighting on the last day of the last week of the political campaign and on them Taft and Bryan today are focusing their contest for the election to the Presidency.

Taft continued his in New York. Bryan devoted today to Indiana. John W. Kern also campaigned in Indiana today, and tonight Bryan will address a meeting in Chicago.

Big Crowd
Elmhurst, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Judge Taft arrived here early today and delivered a brief address to a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Bryan Talks Brotherhood.
Winchester, Ind., Oct. 31.—Bryan in winning up his tour of the east, today issued an appeal to the public for the support of the democratic ticket. He sets forth what the democratic party seeks to accomplish as enumerated in its platform and reiterated and elaborated by the candidates during his hundreds of speeches and appeals.

"To the awakened conscience of the nation, to a sense of justice in the human heart, to a growing desire for brotherhood" and to bring about a victory for the democratic national ticket.

Again Makes Attack
Winchester, Ind., Oct. 31.—After issuing a formal appeal to the people of the United States to support the democratic national ticket, Bryan at this place today declared his attitude on Rockefeller and Carnegie because of their attitudes upon him in connection with their announcement they favored the election of Taft.

More Talk
Anderson, Ind., Oct. 31.—Declaring he "ought to have the votes of those who have been victimized by the trusts, for a republican victory will bring no relief to the people," Bryan is today traveling through Indiana.

He will continue to fire his heaviest batteries at Rockefeller, Carnegie, Harriman, Roosevelt and Taft, because of the announcement that Rockefeller, Carnegie and Harriman have come out openly for Taft.

JUDGE TAKES CASE
UNDER ADVISEMENT

Arguments of Police Case Before
Judge Finished Late Yesterday Afternoon.

Shortly before seven yesterday evening the arguments in the quo-warranto proceedings brought by John Brown against George Appleby, were concluded by the attorneys in the case. No testimony was taken and the case submitted on a stipulation. The arguments were commenced at two o'clock, attorney Charles Pierce opening the case for the plaintiff. He was followed by F. C. Turpece and then John Cunningham made a short argument, bearing his argument shortly after five and did not conclude until after six. Attorneys Pierce and Cunningham then made short answers to Mr.
Wheeler's arguments and all the attorneys then submitted their briefs
to the court.

Judge Griffin, who returned to Jefferson last evening, took the case under advisement.

BUSINESS COLLEGE
HEADS WILL MEET

Annual Session of Wisconsin Commercial Educators Association
Next Month.

On November 27 and 28 the annual convention of the Wisconsin Commercial Educators' association will be held in the Southern Wisconsin college in this city.

The convention will hold a general session on Friday, Nov. 27 at which session in the afternoon Justice of the Peace C. H. Lange of Janesville will speak on "The Scope and Method of Presentation of Commercial Law in Business Colleges." The discussion of the question of the relation of the high school to the private business college will be opened by Prof.
Buell at the same session.

At the general meeting to be held on Saturday afternoon P. C. Grant will talk on the Essentials of Short-hand Training from a Businessman's Standpoint and B. G. Goslin is to speak on Business College Advertising.
On Saturday evening the convention

by Mayor Heddles. The main speaker of the evening will be Prof. W. A.
Zett of the university of Wisconsin who will speak on the subject "A System of Commercial Education."

APPLEBY ARRESTED
WOMEN OF FAMILY

Takes Mother and Sister of the Donnerstag Brothers, Noted Counterfeiters, Into Custody.

Sent to Rhineland to watch for the three Donnerstag brothers, counterfeiters, and unable to find them, W.
H. Appleby, chief deputy United States marshal, refused to return to Madison without prisoners, so he arrested the mother and sister of the fugitives and brought them here to face a charge of being accessories in the counterfeiting business operated by the brothers. Three men were put off a Northwestern train near Minneapolis, and their description answers that of the escaped prisoners. It is thought that the arrest of the mother and sister may cause the brothers to leave of their trouble, thus giving some hope of capturing the men of the bad family. It was known that the bad nesting brothers planned to go out west, but delayed making a start until they were arrested early in August.
Their escape from the Dane county jail here last Sunday evening gave them an opportunity and it is said that they have made a dash for the far west and will never again be seen in Wisconsin.

NEW BILL OF LADING
SOON IN OPERATION

To be Put Into Effect on 416 Railroads the First of Next Week.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—The uniform bill of lading, which has been under discussion by leading associations of business men, shippers and others for the past three years, and which during that time has been carefully considered by the railroads, will be put into operation the first of the week by all of the 116 roads in the official classification territory, extending west to the Mississippi and south to the Ohio river.

The terms of the new bill of lading determine the carrier's responsibility to the shipper in case of damage or loss. It is the belief of the railroads that this will greatly lessen the friction between the carriers and shippers in respect to claims for damages to freight. How important this item is appears from the fact that in 1907 the seventeen principal roads in the trunk line territory paid out a total of $5-536,794 for loss and damage claims.

In order to enforce the use of the new form of bill of lading, the railroads will make the acceptance of the new form of bill of lading, the rail-freight at published rates. A provision has been agreed upon whereby shippers having a supply of the old forms on hand may use them until December 1 providing the new regulations are stamped thereon.

NEWS FORECAST OF
THE COMING WEEK

National Presidential Election Overshadowed All Other Events for Next Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—The one big event of the coming week for the people of the United States, and overshadowing all else of importance, will be the quadrennial national election of a president and vice-president.
Seven national electors are in the field, from which the voters may take their choice. In twenty-eight states government or other state officers are to be elected. Six states will choose justices of the supreme court or minor state officers. In seven states representatives in congress will be chosen in all states excepting Oregon, Vermont and Maine, which states hold their elections during the summer.
The voters of Michigan will decide upon the adoption of a new constitution. In other states proposed constitutional amendments of importance will be voted upon.

Aside from the presidential contest, the results of the elections in several of the states are awaited with general interest. In New York the governmental contest between Hughes and Chandler has attracted national attention. In Indiana and Ohio the contest over the liquor question is of widespread interest. The result in Speaker Cannon's district, the Eleventh Illinois, is also awaited with interest, owing to the bitter fight that has been made by the labor element and others to prevent the speaker's re-election.

The quadrennial general election in Newfoundland takes place on the day preceding the election in the United States. Newfoundland enjoys an independent government apart from Canada, and at the present moment has serious political differences with both her larger neighbors, a fishery dispute with the United States and a boundary dispute with Canada. Sir Robert Bond, the premier, is leading the government forces in the political contest, and the opposition is headed by Sir Edward Morris.

President Roosevelt will leave
Washington for Oyster Bay Monday night and will return early the following morning. His special train will reach Washington on the return trip about six o'clock on the night of election day in time for the president to receive the returns at the White House.

The second squadron of the American battleship fleet under Admiral Sperry will conclude its stay at Anoy and proceed to Manila to rejoin the first squadron, which is due to reach the Philippines capital today. The

Some Questions Worth Considering, a series of Sunday evening sermons
at the Presbyterian church:
November 1.—Is Marriage a Failure?
What is your observation? Have you a reason? Is there any? Can it be made a success?

November 8.—Is Religion as You Know It Satisfactory? Isn't the average man's religion a belated affair, inherited, traditional? What is the cause of religious faith? Have we thought too much or too little?

November 15.—Is the Old Home Idea
as Our Fathers Knew It Out of Date?
What is the matter with our homes?
Too many children or not enough?
What are some of the things we need to guard against in the home life?
Have happy marriages and easy divorces had a wholesome effect?

November 22.—Is the Soul Immortal?
What makes you think so? Do you really believe it in? Have heaven and hell been distanced in our emphasis of the present?

November 29.—Is It Possible to Live
a Christian Life and Succeed in Business? Have you ever tried it? What is success? Did Jesus establish an impossible ideal?

MEMBERS OF LODGE
ENJOYED A SMOKER

Roast Pig and a Number of Speeches and Vocal Solos Made up Program.

Broadhead, Oct. 30.—The Knights of Pythias Lodge held a "smoker" in Castle hall last evening for the members, which, it is said, was the most successful of the kind ever given in the city by this popular order. A roast pig with dressing, coffee, pumpkin pies, apples and cigars figured in the menu and there were several speeches, vocal solos and music by the K. P. orchestra. Verily, it was a success throughout.

JAMES KERR PASSES AWAY

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMAN
DIES IN NEW YORK.

Personal Friend of William J. Bryan —End Comes Immediately Following an Operation.

New York, Oct. 31.—James Kerr, Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, died Saturday morning at his summer home in New Rochelle, following an operation for an intestinal disorder which had made him practically an invalid for a year. His wife and sons were with him at the end.

William J. Bryan visited Mr. Kerr last Monday, and the latter was much elated over the visit of the Democratic candidate, but almost immediately afterward suffered a nervous collapse which greatly aggravated his already weakened condition. There have been several consultations of physicians within the last few days, and it was determined Friday that the only chance of saving Mr. Kerr's life lay in performing an operation.

Mr. Kerr was born in Millville county, Pa., in 1874. He received his education in the Pennsylvania schools and moved to Clearfield, Pa., when a young man. He took an active part in the politics on the side of the Democratic party, with which he has always been identified, and was elected to the Fifty-first congress in 1888. Mr. Kerr was for many years a personal friend of William J. Bryan, and at the national Democratic convention of 1906 he was one of the foremost to urge Col. James M. Guffey, who was nominated to the silver plank in the Chicago platform, to turn in for Mr. Bryan. When the Bryan boom was launched in this state this year, Mr. Kerr was one of those who helped organize the Bryan league of Pennsylvania, and at the Democratic convention in Denver he was chosen national committeeman from Pennsylvania to succeed Col. Guffey in a caucus of 41 members of the Pennsylvania delegation, thus assuring Bryan an organization in the state.

AUTO ACCOMPANIES BALLOON.

Thus Aeronauts May Return to Starting Point Easily.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—Something new in aeronautics was attempted here Friday afternoon when a motor balloon with a capacity of 110,000 cubic feet of gas shot up into the air with an automobile in the place where a basket is usually suspended. The ascension was made in the north part of the city, the balloon carrying two occupants—Carl D. Fisher of Indianapolis and G. L. Bumbaugh of Springfield, Ill. The idea of the aeronauts in using an automobile instead of the usual basket is to be able to immediately roll up the balloon, land it in the automobile and return to the place of starting or other destination.

Le Mans, France, Oct. 31.—While Wilbur Wright, the American aeronaut, was making a flight Friday morning the motor of the machine exploded.

Mourmelon, France, Oct. 31.—Henry Farman Friday, for the first time, gave a practical demonstration of the possibilities of the aeroplane by flying direct from this place to Rheims, a distance of 20 miles, without mishap.

North Adams, Mass., Oct. 31.—In a northwest gale Friday afternoon, William Van Fleet of New York and M. Menard of Pittsburgh made an ascension in the balloon Greylock and were carried a distance of about 40 miles as the crew flew, covered in 20 minutes, or at the rate of 80 miles an hour.

ORVILLE WRIGHT GOES HOME.

Injured Aeroplanist Will Not Sail Craft for a Year.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Delighted with the prospect of returning to his home at Dayton, O., Orville Wright, the aeroplanist whose flights at Fort Myer during September held the attention of the world, Saturday left the hospital at the army post to which he had been confined for the past six weeks. With the aid of crutches Mr. Wright was able to walk. It will be months before Mr. Wright will recover the full use of his left leg, and probably a year or more before he will be in a position to continue his aeroplanist flights. Wilbur Wright, according to the present plans, will finish the flights at Fort Myer begun by his brother Orville.

Steamer Hopeless Wreck.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 31.—The four-masted schooner Charles S. Hirsch from Brunswick, Ga., for Baltimore, driven ashore on the North Carolina coast, was reported by wreckers to be a hopeless wreck and efforts to save her have been abandoned.

Wilson Offered College Job.

Dea Moines, Ia., Oct. 31.—Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture, and a member of the president's cabinet, has been offered the place of president of the State Agricultural college of Colorado.

Negro Electrocuted for Assault.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31.—Winston Green, a negro youth, was electrocuted in the state penitentiary Friday for attempted criminal assault upon a young white girl of Chesterfield county.

King Edward Not Hurt.

Newmarket, England, Oct. 31.—There is no truth in the rumor that King Edward has been injured. He died Friday night with Sir Ernest Cassel.

BRODHEAD.

Brodhead, Oct. 31.—(Richmond) Lodge, A. P. and A. M., are making plans to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the order by holding a homecoming for all who were ever members of the

THE GAZETTE'S CONTEST IS GETTING VERY HOT

You Must Get Warm Up If You Would Win. Get Into The Game. That's It. Fight Hard And You'll Get The Business. If Anyone Thinks He'll Create Any Excitement Or Make An Impression Without A Hard Fight Now And Then, He Is Mistaken. Opposition In Deceit For The Ambitious Man To Feed On. Warm Up Like The Leaders And You'll Get The Votes And Soon Be One Of The Leaders Yourself.

Mrs. Lottie Ella Of Clinton Was The Heavy Voter Of The Day And Made A Very Substantial Gain On The Leaders. Miss Calla Lacy Of Footville Is Again Holding The Position Of Honor And Is The First Lady To Pass The 30,000 Mark In Either District.

The New Bonus Offer

A certificate for 10,000 votes will be given with every $30.00 worth of business turned into the office by next Monday night at 10 P. M. This includes both "old" and "new" subscribers, and the certificate is given in addition to the regular votes issued on each subscription. All business previously turned in, and not checked off in one of the "club" offers will be included in this proposition. Get at least one of the certificates.

Candidates, wouldn't flash the living, brilliant fire of a real sparkler in the eyes of your friends? Then get busy! If, in years to come, at the close of the day's work, in the calm, peaceful atmosphere of the family circle, you would recount the many interesting sights you saw on your trip abroad, get busy right now. There is still time to secure your ticket. A handful of a few thousand votes is a small matter to the determined man or woman; it is merely an incentive to more aggressive and persistent endeavor. A day's systematic, consistent and intelligent work will place any candidate starting to work this week, on an equal footing with those who have been making a haphazard campaign for the past two weeks.

A great many candidates have "promised" of old when they make such a showing that their friends will feel justified in coming to their support. A good many people "promise" just to let the candidate down easy and when they are finally asked to make these promises real, resort to the miserable expedient of attempting to discourage the contest. That is just simply a little outcropping of selfishness. If they can discourage the candidate, they themselves are saving the price of a year's subscription. It isn't a nice thing to think, but plenty of men are willing to think it.

To those contestants who are meeting with such experiences, the contest man would suggest that the good old business college, typewriter-practice, be invoked: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party." And that's the truth. There is no time when friends can assist candidates in this contest as much as RIGHT NOW. The bonus vote offer expires Monday night, and there will never be another so large. It is opportunity time for those friends who have "promised." Put them to the test.

And still the fireworks continue. There were a few more of the real live ones in evidence again yesterday and as a result the scores of several candidates have climbed considerably. Some people who have been laboring under delusions as to the size of the final vote in this contest have been again revising their figures and getting a few new ideas as to what sort of an affair they are up against.

The vote will surely be large. How large is the question and depends entirely upon the candidates and their friends. Don't spend too much time figuring it out. Get all you can.

Have you thoroughly thought out the bonus offer this week? Have you figured out the possibilities it contains and how easily you can roll up a tremendous vote. Look back through your subscription books and check up all your friends who gave you subscriptions for $1.00 or $1.50 early in the contest before either you or they had grasped the proper dimensions of this battle and realized the fact that coupons and "dollar bets" were not going to win very much.

Check up your book and then start out after those fellows who gave you a ten or fifteen week subscription and when you get them in a corner hand them something like this: "Look here, Bill, are you aware that I am running in the Gazette's contest?" Of course he will say yes. He can't do anything else because you have already "pried him away" from the price of one small subscription and he is getting the Gazette now so he can't help knowing where you stand. "What do you think I am running for—a trip to Europe or a gold watch?" Well, naturally he both wants and expects you to go abroad, so all you have to do is explain in a quiet, gentle, fatherly manner that those $1.00 subscriptions will not win a package of toothpicks as long as the other fellows are bringing in one year and two year subscriptions. He'll see the point.

On these extensions you must remember that you get credit on a bonus for the amount you turn in just the same as an ordinary new collection.

Also remember that you get credit for the difference in votes between the short term subscription and the regular vote for the period to which the subscription is filed out. That is—if you, or some other candidate, have secured a subscription from some one for only ten weeks or fifteen weeks, and you induce the subscriber to fill out his subscription to six months or a year you will be given votes in accordance. You or the other fellow only get 200 votes for the ten weeks' subscription and if you get $1.50 from that same subscriber for the balance of the half year you will be given a ballot for 600 votes. If you get $4.00 for the balance of the year you will be credited with 2,200 votes for the $1.00. If you have secured a year's subscription and fill out to two years you will be given a ballot for 5,800 votes. Why not get them?

Candidates who have taken short time subscriptions for ten weeks, fifteen weeks, or six months may secure credit for a full year's vote by getting the subscriber to increase the length of his subscription to one year. This contest will be given credit for the difference between the number of votes issued on the short time subscription and the full number scheduled for a year.

Where contestants can increase the time of a subscription from one year to two or more years this same rule will apply.

TO CANDIDATES IN DISTRICT TWO.

Contestants out of the city should send in their subscriptions as soon as received. Please state whether you wish them placed in the ballot box or mailed to you to be voted later. The contest man's mail has assumed huge proportions, and the certificates turned in for out-of-town candidates will be voted when issued unless otherwise instructed, so as to avoid possible complications.

Owing to the fact that the date previously chosen for closing this contest falls on the eve of the Presidential election, we have decided to postpone the close five days, making the finish come on Saturday, Nov. 7th, at 10 o'clock P. M.

A HARD QUESTION

"Are you one of those Butcherling dentists that don't care whether they kill or cure?" said a prospective patient the other day.

"Well, no," said I, "you don't expect a man to ever acknowledge any such characteristics as that."

"Well, I've seen just such," said she, "I don't want a dentist to go right ahead whether he hurts or not."

"I will be careful," said Dr. Richards, "and leave you to judge as to whether I will meet your requirements or not."

"Well," said she, "You have done work for my husband two years ago, and his crowns are all right, and the work satisfactory. So I came to you myself."

"That's the secret of Dr. Richards' success."

"His work is all right, and wears and makes permanent friends."

PRISON SENTENCE FOR HIGHWAYMAN

ROBBED HIS VICTIM—WAS AR-RESTED—SENTENCED INSIDE
EIGHTEEN HOURS.

PLEADED GUILTY TODAY

Quick Work Made of Hold-up Man Who Knocked Frank H. Chamberlain Senseless Last Evening and Robbed Him.

Robbing his victim, after knocking him senseless, near the outskirts of the city last night, arrested a few hours later, pleading guilty to a crime in court today, and sentenced to two years in state prison, in less than eighteen hours from time of committing the act, is the latest story of crime for Janesville and the efficiency of the local police force.

Just beyond the city limits on Ruger avenue, shortly after dark last evening, Frank H. Chamberlain, who resides on the Alken farm in the town of Harmony, about three miles from Janesville, was assaulted, thrown from his wagon, and robbed by a stranger who had shared his seat on the vehicle. They had been riding along quietly enough, engaged in a rather desultory conversation, when the new-found acquaintance suddenly threw aside his mask of agreeable companion and counselor and turning on the driver with an ugly snarl demanded: "Give me that ten dollar bill I saw you flash in the blacksmith shop! I'm a crook and I'll shoot you if you don't." Chamberlain in his astonishment insisted that he had no such bill. The next moment he received a terrible blow over the right eye and when, in a half dazed condition, he picked himself up at the edge of the road, blood was oozing from a gash above that eye; the man was standing quietly a few feet distant; and the erstwhile companion had disappeared. Gone with him was a five dollar bill which Chamberlain had carried in a vest pocket and he had a dim recollection that the assailant had snatched at his leather watch chain and broken it. The silver watch, however, was still in its place and another five dollar bill which he had stowed away in a trousers' pocket had not been disturbed.

Mr. Chamberlain did not continue his way homeward and delay his complaint to the police department until sometime the next day or the next week, as stupid people, in similar cases, are continually doing. He turned back to the city and within an hour after the hold-up, Chief Appleby and the officers had a working description of the criminal and were on his trail. The depots and Interurban line were searched to several of the patrolmen and Officer William Mason made a round-up of the South River street saloons. In Herman Luehke's place he ran across a tall light-complexioned individual about 25 years of age who seemed to fit the description and amid many remonstrances escorted him to the station. Something over six dollars in silver were found upon the prisoner's person and certain parties identified him as the party who had been holding-up with Chamberlain during the late afternoon.

Met at Podewell's.
It appears that James Fox, as the prisoner calls himself, spotted his victim in Podewell's saloon on Academy street. Chamberlain was drinking rather more than was good for him and Fox, in a most brotherly fashion, took occasion to warn him that he had better go home or the police would get him. The former presently agreed that this was good advice. Whereupon, Fox proved the bona fide character of his solicitude by accompanying Chamberlain to a blacksmith shop where the latter wanted to pay some small charges before turning back to the rural districts. When he pulled out a $5 bill, evidently mistaken for Fox for one of $10 denomination, and the blacksmith with a dubious about making the change, Fox at once professed it. Confident now, that he had asked up a friend, indeed, Chamberlain gladly gave the stranger a seat beside him on the wagon and assured him that he would be welcome at the farm-house.

Had Been "Doing" Fair.
Fox was arrested about a month ago on the charge of stealing two watches and a gold watch from one of two associates who had been working some sort of a game at the fair and had just returned from the Jefferson exhibition. The victim in this instance appeared to be a dope fiend and his charges against Fox were somewhat vague. When, therefore, he withdrew them and stated that the property had been restored to him and the matter settled, Fox was released and advised to get out of town. He had not been seen hereabouts for some time until last night.

Committed to Prison.
Fox claims that he comes from Pittsburg. When Chamberlain positively identified him as the assailant and robber who had attacked him last night, he evidently saw that the jig was up. At any rate he entered a plea of guilty in municipal court this morning and Judge Field sentenced him to serve two years in the state's prison at Waupun. The usual excuse of "too much booze" was proffered but it evidently made little impression on the court.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Ladies Invited: Chairman H. L. McNamara of the republican county committee wants it understood that ladies will be welcomed at the republican rally Monday evening at the opera-house at which P. E. McGovern of Milwaukee will be the speaker.

Old Farm Work: E. C. Davis of Center knocked 32 acres of corn in 15 hours on the farm known as the Jans, Hopkins farm, in Center. Hacked 41 loads of corn. This corn was hauled by the Advance corn husker.

Streets Inspected Today: Members of the street assessment committee made a tour in the patrol-wagon this morning and viewed several of the streets where sewer excavations have been in progress. The sewer work and heavy teaming on Milton avenue, have put that thoroughfare in very bad condition and the contractor was directed to flush the street, repair the surface, and place it in its original good condition. The Racine street sewer work was also examined and will be accepted as soon as the city engineer has approved it.

EVANSVILLE WON FOOTBALL CONTEST

Janesville High School Eleven Was Defeated This Morning by the Score of 10 to 0.

This morning at Athletic Park, in a game with the Evansville football team, the Janesville high school eleven were defeated for the fourth time this season by the score of 10 to 0. Both touchdowns were secured on rushes made by the Evansville boys.

FOOTBALL AS IT'S PLAYED

Merrill for the local high school secured a touchdown but the Evansville referee would not allow it. The game ended with the ball in Janesville's hands and the local team on Evansville's five yard line. Forrest Durner, the quarter back for the Evansville team, did star work. The work of the Janesville boys was fairly good. The line-up of the teams was as follows:

GENERAL PLAN OF NUMBERING SYSTEM

Blocks Are Numbered 1,000 and Upward Beyond Certain Arbitrary Lines on Four Points of Compass.

Charles W. Forest, who resides on Racine street just west of Garfield avenue, was unable to understand why he should be assigned the number 1105, while William Baum, who lives on the same thoroughfare just east of Garfield avenue and less than a block away, has the number 335. The explanation was made in a very simple and convincing manner by George J. Davis at the City Engineer's office this morning. With the aid of maps he showed how, proceeding under the assumed Philadelphia system, 100 numbers had been theoretically assigned to each block westerly and westerly from the center of the river, and northerly and southerly from Milwaukee street. Moving from the heart of the city, one may expect to find corresponding numbers on parallel streets arranged in tiers and the location of any home may be almost exactly gauged by a person who understands the system. However, owing to the fact that the city is not laid out in straight lines and that some of the streets approximately paralleling the main thoroughfares north and south and east and west, have a greater or fewer number of blocks, it has been necessary, in order to secure some sort of general uniformity to fix arbitrary "four lines." Thus, the blocks on all streets radiating outward are numbered from 1,000 up beyond Garfield avenue. In the same fashion Madison street and Center avenue constitute the "1000 line" on the West. Eastern avenue is the line on the south, and Benton avenue is the line on the north, and the system works out without any "forcing" in the last-named instance.

UNIQUE OBSERVANCE OF THE SAINTS' DAYS

All Saints' and All Souls' Days Are Holidays Throughout the Southwest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 31.—To-morrow and Monday, All Saints' and All Souls' days, respectively, will be quite generally observed as holidays throughout southwest Texas, where the Mexican population is large. The observance is of a highly interesting character. In San Antonio, Brownsville, Eagle Pass, Laredo and in many other cities and towns in the region adjacent to the Rio Grande border, the Mexican population have their own cemeteries. It is in these burial grounds that the unique ceremony of attending a supposed reception given by the dead is carried out on All Saints' day. Relatives and friends of the dead are too poor to buy or cultivate flowers they plant out or wheat upon the grave a few weeks before the holidays arrive and the grain is green and waving and answers the purpose of floral decoration.

SAUCE FOR GOOSE; SAUCE FOR GANDER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—In order to circumvent a state law of their own procurement, prohibiting saloons within half a mile of the university, members of the University of Wisconsin faculty have established a co-operative saloon, but may have to abandon it because a secret organization of students has followed suit. The Wisconsin legislature of 1907 was besought earnestly by the university faculty to remove unwholesomeness and temptation from the university atmosphere and make it a better environment for susceptible young men, by prohibiting the licensing of any beer saloons within half a mile of the university. Responding to this commendable interest in the student welfare, the legislature granted the faculty's request. Seven saloons, some of them known as favorite resorts for student kommers clubs, were closed out of the neighborhood. Shortly thereafter the University club, composed of the leading members of the faculty and some prominent professional men of the city, took out quietly a government liquor license, authorizing the dispensing of beer and other intoxicating liquors of all kinds and in any quantity. Members and guests of members could purchase "beers" at the clubhouse, and they found it convenient not to be compelled to walk to the end of the "dry" district to get their wittings. Some of the total abstainers among the members objected to the scheme, but liberal minds prevailed and the clubhouse bar has done such a big business as to substantially assist in the maintenance of the expensive club. While it has frequently been rumored that drunkenness occurred in the club, this has not been proved and it seems that the dispensing and drinking of liquor there were not attended with any extent of disorderliness.

No complaints on this account ever came to the police. But the convulsions of the University club are threatened, all because some upstart students aped the faculty men. Learning of the easy way in which the faculty bar was secured, the Yellow Helmet secret society, an organization of members of various Greek letter fraternities, of convivial tastes, secured rooms at 422 State street, took out a federal liquor license in the name of A. R. Amner, treasurer of the Yellow Helmet, and established a co-operative saloon of their own. The Yellow Helmet rooms have been as orderly as the faculty club barroom, but what is proper for grown-up faculty men is not deemed wholesome for tender students, and the faculty is making an investigation. It is said that the result will be the abandonment of the liquor dispensing features of the University club, in order that what is deemed a bad example to students may not be continued. Immediately the liquor part of the Yellow Helmet club will be stopped and the club itself may be ordered to disexist.

One Citizen Wanted a Permit from Chief of Police to Take Pot-Shots at Halloween Vandals.

Chief Appleby was visited this morning by one citizen who asked permission to use his shotgun in the city limits tonight, on the condition that he should remove all shot from the cartridges. The police, however, hope that the people will help guard their own property against Halloween vandals without the use of firearms. Boys chalking windows or stealing gates will be caught if caught, but it is not to be supposed that any great number of them can be landed. Changing wagon wheels on a vehicle will be regarded as a prank just so long as the washers and nuts are put back in place so that life and limb will not be endangered.

BELOIT TEAMS PLAY THREE GAMES TODAY

Football Spirit is Rampant in the Line City at Present.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 31.—Football fans in Beloit are today interested in the games which the school teams are to play. At Keokuk held here, Beloit and Lawrence College will line up against one another. This is one of the largest games which the college has scheduled for this season and it is expected that the attendance will be unusually large. Quite a number from Janesville will attend. At Delavan, the high school plays the team from the Deaf and Dumb school. The Academy team are playing in Woodstock, Ill., against the high school team of that place.

There was an enthusiastic Republican rally held at Shoppers last night. A large number of Republicans from Beloit attending the session. T. D. Woolsey of Beloit and J. L. Bear of Janesville were the speakers of the evening.

The Younger Set

Chapter 13

ABOUT that time Boots Lansing very quietly bought a house on Manhattan Island. It was a small, narrow, three storied house of brick, rather shabby on the outside and situated on a modest block between Lexington and Park avenues, where the newly married of the younger set were arriving in increasing numbers, prepared to pay the penalty for all love matches.

It was an unexpected move to Selwyn; he had not been aware of Lansing's contemplated desertion, and that morning, returning from his final interview with Neergard, he was astonished to find his comrade's room bare of furniture and a hasty and exclamatory note on his own table:

Phil! I've bought a house! Come and see it. You'll find me in it. Carpe diem! I'm off! Yours, Boots.

And Selwyn, horribly depressed, went down after a solitary luncheon and found Lansing sitting on a pile of dusty rugs, carefully inspecting the cracked ceiling.

"I'm going to have the entire thing done over, room by room, when I can afford it. Look there, Phil! That's to be your room."

"Thanks, old fellow—not now."

"Why, yes! I expected you'd have your room here, Phil!"

"It's very good of you, Boots, but I can't do it."

Lansing faced him. "Won't you find Lansing sitting on a pile of dusty rugs."

Selwyn, smiling, shook his head, and the other knew it was final.

"Well, the room will be there, furnished the way you and I like it. When you want it make smoke signals or wigwag."

"I will, thank you, Boots."

Lansing said unaffectedly, "How soon do you think you can afford a house like this?"

"I don't know. You see, I've only my income now."

"What's that you make at the office?"

"I've left Neergard."

"What?"

"This morning, for good."

"The deuce!" he murmured, looking at Selwyn; but the latter volunteered no further information, and Lansing, having given him the chance, cheerfully switched to the other track.

"Shall I see whether the Air Line has anything in your line, Phil? No? Well, what are you going to do?"

"I don't exactly know what I shall do. If I had capital—enough—I think I'd start in making built and think powder—all sorts; gun cotton, nitro powders."

"You mean you'd like to go on with your own invention—chlorine?"

"I'd like to keep on experimenting with it if I could afford to. Perhaps I will. But it's not yet a commercial possibility—it's it ever is to be, I wish I could control it; the ignition is simultaneous and absolutely complete, and there is not a trace of ash, not an unburned or partly burned particle. But it's not to be trusted, and I don't know what happens to it after a year's storage."

"Anyway," said Lansing, "you're nothing to worry over."

"No, nothing," assented Selwyn heartily.

After a silence Lansing added, "But you do a lot of worrying all the same, Phil."

Selwyn flushed up and denied it.

"Yes, you do! I don't believe you realize how much of the time you are out of spirits."

"Does it impress you that way?" asked Selwyn, mortified, "because I'm really all right?"

"Of course you are, Phil. I know it, but you don't seem to realize it. You're morbid, I'm afraid."

"What of it? Besides, I know there was something the matter."

"You know what it is too, and isn't it enough to subdue a man's spirit occasionally?"

"No," said Lansing, "if you mean your mistake—two years ago, that isn't enough to spoil life for a man."

I've wanted to tell you for a long time."

And as Selwyn said nothing, "For heaven's sake, make up your mind to enjoy your life! You are fitted to enjoy it. Get that absurd notion out of your head that you're done for, that you've no home life in prospect, no family life, no children."

"Do you mean to say, Boots, that you think a man who has made the ghastly mess of his life that I have ought to feel free to marry?"

"Think it! Man, I know it. Certainly you ought to marry if you wish, but, above all, you ought to feel free to marry. That is the essential equipment of a man. He isn't a man if he feels that he isn't free to marry. He may not want to do it, he may not be in love. That's neither here nor there. The main thing is that he is free as a man should be to take any good opportunity, and marriage is included in the list of good opportunities."

Sitting there in the carpetless room piled high with dusty, linen shrouded furniture, Selwyn looked around, an involuntary smile twitching his mouth.

"What about your marriage?" he said, "after this talk about mine?"

"What about it, Boots? Is this new house the first modest step toward the matrimony you land so loudly?"

"Sure," said that gentleman airily. "That's what I'm here for."

"Really?"

"Well, of course, idiot. I've always been in love."

"You mean you actually have somebody in view?"

"No, son. I've always been in love with—love, I'm a sentimental sentry on the ramparts of reason. I'm properly armed for trouble now, so if I'm challenged I won't let my chance slip by me."

After a little while Selwyn went away, first to look up a book which he was having bound for Ellen, then to call on his sister, who, with Ellen, had just returned from a week at Silverdale with the children preliminary to moving the entire establishment there for the coming summer.

"Silverdale is too lovely for words!" exclaimed Nina as Selwyn entered the library. "Nobody wanted to come away. Ellen made straight for the surf, but it was an Arctic sea, and as soon as I found out what she was doing I made her come out."

"I should think you would," he said. "Nobody can do that and thrive."

"She seems to," said Nina. "She was simply glorious after the swim, and I hated to put a stop to it. And you should see her drying her hair and helping Plunket to roll the tennis courts—that hair of hers blowing like gold flames and her sleeves rolled to her armpits—and you should see her down in the dirt playing marbles with Billy and Irma shooting away excitedly and exclaiming 'Ten dibs' and 'Kannele down, Billy! like any gamins you ever heard of—totally unspoiled, Phil, in spite of all the success of her first winter! And do you know that she had no end of men seriously entangled? Phil!"

"What?" he said.

"His sister regarded him smilingly, then partly turned around and perched herself on the padded arm of a great chair."

"Come over here, Phil; no, close to me. I wish to put my hands on your shoulders, like that. Now look at me. Do you really love me?"

"Sure thing, Ninette."

"And you know I adore you, don't you?"

"Madly, dear, but I forgive you."

"No, I want you to be serious, because I'm pretty serious. See, I'm not smiling now. I don't feel like it, because it is a very, very important matter, Phil, this thing that has—has—almost happened. It's about Ellen. And it really has happened."

"What has she done?" he asked curiously.

"Her sister's eyes were searching his very differently, as though in quest of something elusive, and he gazed serenely back, the most unresponsive of smiles touching his mouth."

"Phil, dear, a young girl—a very young girl—is a vapid and uninteresting proposition to a man of thirty-five, isn't she?"

"Rather—in some ways."

"In what way is she not?"

"Well, to me, for example, she is not acceptable as children are acceptable—a blessed, sweet, clean relief from the vision of the Fates' set, for example."

"Like Rosamund?"

"Yes, and Ninette, you and Austin seem to be drifting out of the old circles, the sort that you and I were accustomed to. You don't mind my saying it, do you? But there were so many people in this town who had something besides millions—amusing, well bred, jolly people who had no end of good times, but who didn't gamble and gamble and stuff themselves and their friends, who were not eternally hanging around other people's wives. You have just asked me whether a young girl is interesting to me. I answer, yes, thank God, for the cleaner, sunnier, happier hours I have spent this winter among my own kind have been spent where the younger set dominated. They are better than those who breed them, and if in time they, too, fall short they will not fall as far as their parents. And in their turn when they look around them at the younger set, whom they have taught in the light and wisdom of their own shortcomings, they will see fresher, sweeter, lovelier young people than we see now."

And it was then that Selwyn, looking at him almost sadly,

"Dear, all the things you are preparing to shout at me are quite useless. I know, I don't imagine, I don't forget. I don't pretend."

"Nina, you are madder than a March hare!"

"All your theories, Phil, then come back to realities. The conditions remain. Ellen is certainly a little in love with you, and a little with her means something. And you evidently have never harbored any serious intentions toward the child. I can see that, because you are the most trans-

About Hair Loss

WHILE every case of hair loss is sad enough, there is, now and then, one that is actually pathetic. The face of the person may show no sign of approaching age but the thinning hair with its dullness and lifelessness becomes a gloom instead of a crown of glory. Unconscious neglect due to ignorance of—or indifference to—the dandruff germ is at the bottom of most cases of hair loss.

MANLY WOMEN

Many women take no particular interest in preserving the hair until it begins to fall. While it is still abundant they regard its destruction as out of the question, but when injury comes fast and furious they become almost frantic with alarm. A dozen remedies are tried in as many weeks all of which do little or no good whatever.

AN INSIDIOUS ENEMY

There is no more insidious enemy to beautiful hair than the dandruff germ (an inviolable growth of vegetable character that finds lodgment in the sebaceous glands of the scalp.) Dr. Sabouraud—ask your doctor about him—says that this germ enters the scalp in youth, and that months or even years may elapse before its presence is even suspected.

The first symptoms are usually dullness and brittleness of the hair with later dandruff and itching scalp. Falling hair and baldness represent the final stages of this disease.

WITH THE NAKED EYE

It is possible to tell with the naked eye whether a hair root is badly diseased or not. Pull a hair from the head of a young person and the root will appear large, whitish and ragged, showing the perfect adhesion that existed at the bottom of the hair follicle. If the hair from another scalp shows a smaller, gelatinous appearing root without the ragged edge, it points unmistakably to disease.

HOW IT OCCURS

The dandruff germ inflames the sebaceous glands causing the secretion of too little or too much sebum, resulting in extremely dry or very oily hair, with, usually, dandruff. This inflammation in time extends down the follicle walls to the papilla where the adhesions are loosened, thus cutting off the hair's supply of nourishment (hair nourishment comes from the blood and not from "hair tonics.") After these adhesions are broken by disease, the hair is apt to slip out at any time.

WHAT HERPICIDE DOES

The province of Newbro's Herpicide is to destroy the dandruff germ, after which the hair resumes its natural beauty and abundance; unless the disease was neglected too long. Herpicide has done and is still doing more toward saving and beautifying the hair than all other remedies combined. It does not instantly destroy the thousands of germ colonies in a badly diseased scalp, nor does it do any other impossible thing.

JANUARY AND JUNE

Successful results from Newbro's Herpicide in January will not prevent a reinfestation of the scalp in June, but the intelligent use of Herpicide will accomplish all that any human agency can accomplish, and that in many cases is little short of marvelous. As a hair dressing, and for toilet use, Newbro's Herpicide is recognized by connoisseurs as the daintiest and most delightful preparation in existence. It makes the hair light and fluffy and gives it a silky gloss. It contains no oil or grease and will not stain or dye the hair. Try it today.

And it will continue so, dear, through the jolly generations. Life is all right, only, like art, it is very, very long sometimes."

Nina sat silent upon the padded arm of her chair, looking up at her brother. "Mad preacher! Mad mollah! Dear, dear follow!" she said tenderly. "All this of the world cannot then discount, but not thing over."

"Those, too," he insisted, laughing. "I had a talk with Boots. But anyway I'd already arrived at my own conclusion—that—that I'm rather overdoing this blighted business."

"Phil!" he said, reddening nicely. "between you and Boots and myself I've decided that I'm going in for whatever any man is going in for—life! Ninette, life to the full and up to the hilt for mine!"

"I am going to say something that is very, very serious and very near my heart," said Nina.

"Remember," he said, "it's about Ellen, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is about Ellen."

He waited, and again his sister's eyes began restlessly searching his for something that she seemed unable to find.

"You make it a little difficult, Phil. I don't believe I had better speak of it."

"Why not?"

"Why, just because you ask me 'Why not?' for example."

"Is it anything that worries you about Ellen?"

"No, not exactly. It is—it may be a phase, and yet I know that if it is anything at all it is not a passing phase. She is different from the majority, you see—very intelligent, very direct. She never forgets, for example. Her loyalty is quite remarkable. Phil, she is very intense in her—her beliefs, the more so because she is unusually free from impulse, even quite ignorant of the deeper emotions, or so I believed until—until—"

"Is she in love?" he asked.

"A little, Phil."

"Does she admit it?" he demanded, unpleasantly astonished.

"She admits it in a dozen innocent ways to me, who can understand her. But to herself she has not admitted it. I think—could not admit it yet, because—because—"

"Who is it?" asked Selwyn, and there was in his voice the slightest undertone of a growl.

"Dear, shall I tell you?"

"Why not?"

"Because—because, Phil, I think that our pretty Ellen is a little in love with you."

And it was then that Selwyn, looking at him almost sadly,

"Dear, all the things you are preparing to shout at me are quite useless. I know, I don't imagine, I don't forget. I don't pretend."

"Nina, you are madder than a March hare!"

"All your theories, Phil, then come back to realities. The conditions remain. Ellen is certainly a little in love with you, and a little with her means something. And you evidently have never harbored any serious intentions toward the child. I can see that, because you are the most transparent than I ever knew. Now, the question is, What is to be done?"

"I am, of course, obliged to believe that you are mistaken," he said. "A man cannot choose but believe in that manner. There is no very young girl, nobody, old or young, whom I like as thoroughly as I do Ellen Errol. She knows it; so do you, Nina. It is open and aboveboard. I should be very unhappy if anything married or distorted our friendship. I am quite confident that nothing will."

"In that frame of mind," said his sister, smiling, "you are the healthiest companion in the world for her, for you will either cure her or she you, and it is all right either way."

"Certainly it will be all right," he said confidently.

For a few moments he paced the room, reflective, quickening his pace all the while, and his sister watched him, silent in her indecision.

"I'm going up to see the kids," he said abruptly.

"The children, one and all, were in the park, but Ellen was sewing in the nursery, and his sister did not call him back as he was out of the room and up the stairs. But when he had disappeared Nina dropped into her chair, aware that she had played her best card prematurely, forced by Rosamund, and had just told her that rumor continued to be very busy compiling her brother's name with the name of the woman who once had been his wife."

THE BUSY MAN'S CORNER.

Pumped full of air by three friends "as a joke," John Schlut, 21 years old, died in Bridgeport, Conn.

As the battleships of the Atlantic fleet moved to the navy yard they will be painted a state color.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company let a contract for a 4,000,000 bushel elevator at Fort William, Ontario.

A prominent politician of New York is accused by a New York judge with having engaged in "white slave" traffic.

Winston Green, a negro youth, was electrocuted in the state penitentiary at Richmond, Va., for attempted criminal assault.

Orders have been given that the British squadron under the command of Rear Admiral Sir Percy Scott, proceed to South America on the completion of its South African program.

A mob of about 30 men attacked the Roanoke county jail, Kingston, Tenn., and killed George Cook, held on the charge of murdering John King, a ferryman at Southwest Point.

President Roosevelt has agreed to recommend to congress in his next message the passage of a law to conserve the public health, similar to the one proposed by the American Medical association.

Thirty-nine New York cooks, laundresses, nursery and chamber maids were the recipients this year of the prizes given annually by the German Housewives' society for faithfulness and length of service.

BUCKET SHOP HAUL UNEARTHED

Western Union Suspends Suspected Men at Cincinnati Offices.

Cincinnati, Oct. 31.—As a result of charges against the Western Union by the Chicago board of trade that market quotations had been permitted to leak to "bucket shops," five trusted employees of the Cincinnati Western Union office were absent from their accustomed desks, having been suspended pending investigation.

The chief operator, chief foreman, chief clerk to superintendent's office, head of the ticker department, and head switchboard operator were dropped. Of these two are nephews of Superintendent Miller.

To Benefit Chinese Officers.

STORM KILLS BOY IN THE EAST.

Lad Felled by Gigantic Flapdoodle Which Gale Tears Loose.

New York, Oct. 31.—Many accidents, one of which resulted in the death of a 12-year-old schoolboy in the Bronx, were reported throughout the city Friday, as a result of the 10-mile an hour northwest gale that had New York in its grip. Immense signs and billboards were demolished and in the suburban districts the hurried play havoc with every loose object. Edward McCarton, the 12-year-old son of a policeman, was struck by a falling flapdoodle which was torn from the tower of the Morris high school by a terrific gust of wind. The pole crashed young McCarton to the sidewalk, fracturing his spine. He died within two hours.

Gov. Guild Improves.

Boston, Oct. 31.—The condition of Gov. Guild, who was stricken with gastritis, showed a notable improvement Saturday, according to a statement issued from the executive department. The governor is expected to be at the state house on Monday.

Belgium to Rule Congo.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Belgium is to assume sovereignty over the Congo, which has been annexed by treaty on the fifteenth of November, says a dispatch to the state department Friday from American Minister Henry L. Wilson at Brussels.

No Yague Slain.

Nogales, Ariz., Oct. 31.—After a thorough investigation of the reported killing of 40 Yaguis, including Chief Bule in an encounter at Hermosillo, it may be said authoritatively that no foundation for the reports exist.

MODERN WAY OF LIVING

Has a Tendency to Weaken the Strongest.

One hundred years ago there was less kidney trouble than there is today.

The worry, hurry, and overwork of modern living doubles the work of the kidneys, wears and weakens the muscle unable to properly do their duty of filtering the poisons from the blood. As a result the whole system runs down.

Need the slightest symptom of kidney trouble—the first backache, the first irregularity of the urine. It may be the forerunner of dangerous disease. You can cure yourself quickly with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read the experience of a Janesville citizen.

Chas. W. Allen, living in Janesville, Wis., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they are all right. I can endorse them as a good kidney and backache remedy and one that can be relied upon. I suffered from these troubles for a long time, and although I used different preparations I received no relief. Finally I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the People's Drug Co. and began their use. In a few days the trouble left me and has never returned. I can certainly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ARTHUR BRIDES.

New Haven, Conn.—Arthur Brides is the strong member of the back field on the Yale team, who can always be depended upon for gains. If it is within the range of possibility, he is well put up strong and quick on his feet, and a very difficult man to throw. He is into every play that is pulled off.

Real Meaning of "Aftermath."
"Aftermath" is a persistently ill-used word. Early July is the time of the "math," that is, the first mowing of the meadows. The short grass, with a sufficiency of rain, will grow again, and later will come the "second mow" or "aftermath."

The Order of Disgrace.
If a man dies in a way that disgraces his order, the only people concerned are the other members of his order. They, therefore, are the people who ought to bear the cost of saving their order from disgrace.—London Truth.

Deserved or Undeserved.
The sweetest of all sounds is praise.—Seneca.
